“ Mowie, I'll always remember how much you loved my fish suppers and how funny you were. I can still see you sitting in your pew on the opposite side of me in church but just a little ahead of me and you'd say something hilarious and then look back around at me with a guilty, crooked smile on your face. I'll always remember the fact that we couldn't have a fellowship meal at church without your dumplings and cornbread dressing. We and you ALWAYS knew what you were going to bring to a eatin' meetin'. The thing that I'll cherish most though is the fact that you came to my Mama's wake after she passed and even after it, you laughed and cried with me when I told you things about what I missed about my mama. I'll always remember you Mowie....always. You were my mother away from home. When the doctors told you it was time to go home and I cried you said for me to just meet you again in Heaven....I'll be there soon Bumbie, just not today.....You taught me how to live in faith and how to die in faith. God rest your beautiful soul.

“ You lived a life of service with grace and beauty that was untouched by this wicked world. You impacted so many people with kindness and love. You were my safe place in this world and I'm grateful God put you in my life. I know you are rejoicing with God but life here without you is not as beautiful. Today I sat in your chair with not a noise for miles. I could hear the voices of my family in every board of that old house. The floor creaked with the thousands of steps that came before me. I was for a short time surrounded by my family. Kiss granny Odie for me and make dad be good. I'll see you again in glory. Your work here is done.

I have only known Mowie a few years. It seems like i have known her A life time. Wonderful Christian woman who loved the lord with all her ❤️. She taught me a lot. Loved being with her. I will miss her a lot. But I will be with her again. Always told her I loved her and she would say I love you too.
