“ I taught Brody when he was in 8th grade. I can still envision him in my classroom, talking with friends, participating in discussions, laughing and cutting up ... all the things good students do. I can't imagine how much his family and friends who have kept up with his daily life are going to miss him if, after all these years, I feel a loss in my heart after just teaching him for the one school year. My prayers are with all of his family and friends, along with those he impacted in the classroom. May peace that goes beyond understanding fill your hearts.
