“ All week I have typed and backed out so many words that I thought I wanted to say about DJ. None have been the right words. He lived life.....I was honored to have called him my friend. Fly High old man! Love you and miss you and will see you again some day!

“ There will NEVER be another Danny DJ Pellham. I am proud to call him my friend. He was always honest. Sometimes brutally honest! You never had to wonder what he thought or how he felt because if you didn't ask, he'd probably volunteer the information. But I don't know of him ever looking down on anyone. He never ran from anything. He'd fight if you wanted to fight or he'd give you a hug if you needed one. Your choice. And yes, he did shoot the ball off the antennae of Ol' Black with the Camel Killer! I have 10 million stories to tell and didn't have to make up one. He humbly referred to himself as The Living Legend. For me he will always live as a legend. If I could ask him if it were worth the trouble I know he would say, "Ahh! What trouble?!?! " I will miss you as much as I love you. Greatly! I hope that where you are it is always cool (DJ hated the summer!), the squirrels are young and fat, the crappie are always biting, the bucks are big and the fire never goes out! Sleep peacefully, Brother!

“ Danny and I went to Longview High School together. If I am remembering right, Danny and I were in the "math class for the dumb." Neither of us were dumb, just sluffing off. He happened to be in the hospital on graduation day so we all piled in his room in our silly graduation hats and black gowns. Even in traction he laughed. We all loved Danny. I saw him last year after about 27 years. We had a good time remembering when we were young and dumb. Wished I could see him one more time. Linda Laws
