“ He loved his family, the outdoors, and his hometown. He passed too soon and we will all regret and mourn what could have been said and the time that was lost. If you or someone you know is fighting anxiety, depression, or addiction, then please speak up and speak out. Surround yourself with people who can lift you up rather than weight you down. And, be sure to tell the people you love how much they mean to you--no matter what. Our time on this earth passes quickly and we don't know God's plan.

I have recently come across this obituary and being able to see the pictures of my father and seeing how loved he is by many people makes me wish i was able to see him more before his passing which was five years ago. it make me sad even because we didn't have any relationship and no memories from being with him or any communication with each other i still love him very much and i pray to him letting him know how much love him. I do cry and shed many tears knowing he is gone and that i will never be able to see him but i just have to handle the fact that god said it was his time to go and that he had to leave. But what matters is that he left the earth loved by many.❤️

“ So sorry for the loss of another dear classmate. Although we lost track of each other for many years, I always David a good friend during our high school days. We always had a lot of fun, reminiscing at our school reunions. David will be greatly missed by all of us who were fortunate enough to have known him.
