“ Andy was first a client and later became a true friend and mentor. His knowledge of the insurance industry and how it worked was a great help to me as a lawyer as my career progressed. Andy would always know the answer to questions and was always happy to help. We had some good times together and my favorite trip was to London to meet with the Lloyds of London underwriters and see The Phantom of the Opera. He will be missed.

Love You,

“ You'd never meet a kinder/happier soul, with as contagious of a smile as Grandpa Andy. He was the kind of man that everyone wanted to know and once you knew him, you couldn't help but love him. He was a very decorated man, with a long, fulfilled life, and was a true HERO in the eyes of many people, especially me. He loved to tell stories of his time in the USMC, but was too humble when called a hero...to him, it was doing what was right. He also was very proud of the Anderson name, and the legacy that the Anderson's have there in Carthage. One of my greatest memories is him showing me the town as a little girl and taking me to have coffee while he told me all about Anderson square. He's a wonderful man with a special place in my heart, and he will never be forgotten. I know when he sees St. Pete he'll let out a big "OORAH" and march in to be with his loved ones.

Semper Fi and hug my momma for me!

-Until we meet again!

Love, Alex
