He grew up in the cities of Elysian Fields, DeBerry, Waskom, Longview, Shreveport, and Bossier City, so he blessed many people with his presence. He graduated from Elysian Fields High School in 1996. James was a very giving person who tried to take care of everyone and everything. He was a true friend, brother, son, father, husband who always had a shoulder available for support or to cry on.

He could never say no and always tried to figure out how to make everything work out.

James was also very involved in the community. He served numerous years as Captain of Community 4 Volunteer Fire Department. James also served on Area Go Texan raising money for scholarships. James was very proud of the businesses he had—Boss Hog BarBQue and Boss Weed Control. He gladly employed numerous friends and taught his boys priceless skills. He was a very involved Dad and husband, who never missed a game, practice, school event, graduation, or doctor's appointment. His sons were his pride and joy. His wife was his china doll princess.

James was preceded in death by grandparents Arthur and Margie Gibbs, Dorothy Peloquin and J.C. Purvis. Left to cherish his memory are his loving wife of 18 years, Cherie Becker Peloquin, sons, Dillan Peloquin, Drake Marceaux, Hunter Marceaux, and Colton Marceaux; father, Michael Peloquin and stepmother, Cindy; mother, Helen Gibbs and step dad Wayne Campbell; brother, Dereck Peloquin and wife Rachel; sister, Dawn Stover and husband John; as well as numerous uncles, aunts, nephews, nieces, cousins and co-workers. He has left a huge hole in their lives. They say God takes you when your work on earth is done and you are perfect. James used to always sing, "Oh Lord, it's hard to be humble, when your perfect in every way..."

“ As a kid, I had moved around a lot, and landing at EF was just one more bump in the road. As an awkward, disconnected teen, I struggled to make friends. James was outgoing and friendly and we just clicked. We spent a lot of time over the next few years surviving and thriving. We played football, hung out at his house, and just enjoyed the ignorance of youth. As life moved on, he invited me to church at FBC Waskom where I gave my life to Jesus soon afterward. We went through the bumpy paths of teenage life; ups, downs, and outs together. There are too many stories to share here, but I can say that James was a foundational part of my life. He was the friend and often the kick in the pants that God knew I sorely needed. I now work with troubled youth and the blessings of friendship, compassion, and humor that James shared with me, I now share with the kids that land in my path. Our small group in high school provided the home that I needed. After high school, we traveled separate paths, but we were able to reconnect over the past couple of years and nothing had changed aside from hair and waistline. You do not find gems like James often in this pitiful existence and we all know that the world is a darker place because of his absence. I take solace in knowing that in a short time, we will be able to enjoy a reunion in Heaven.

“ James had gotten concert tickets to see Aron Temton(not sure I spelled his name correctly) but for some reason, he wasn't able to go. He gave me his ticket. I met Helen and Wayne at the concert, and a couple of weeks later they came to the house. We were talking about the concert and I got up and kissed James on the cheek to thank him for the ticket. He turned as red as a coke can!! I laughed so hard. He was skidiss of me the rest of the night. He was such a giving person. He had a heart as big as the moon. I will miss him.
