“ My mother and I always loved visiting with Mrs. Jean at Tracey's Beauty Shop getting our hair done. She always had a smile and loved life and people. When my grandmother, Florette Newman, was in the nursing home in 2009 after suffering a stroke, I was sitting with her one day and Mrs. Jean came in and visited with me and brought me a sandwich. That day, we talked about everything and also the one thing we had in common, no children. She was okay with it and so was I.

“ I married into the Harrison family and always called her Aunt Jean and of course Uncle Alzie. That's how I always out two to two together. Aunt Jean was always a sweet lady and loved by many people. She always had a smile when I saw her and kind words when she spoke. My thoughts and prayers to all the family goes to you all. They might not have any children but I guarantee she considered many of some hers. With love Jason and Marilyn Harrison family
