“ I just learned of Michele's death and feel my world is darker already. she brought light into every room and laughter into every group. She was so young and fragile and brave in her battle with cancer it made me cry. My best memory, Michele dancing with my husband to zydeca music in my kitchen. Both of them are gone now and maybe----

“ The news of Michele's passing is very hard. Her zest for life and laughter was infectious and she generously shared it with those around her. I was fortunate enough to spend 3 years working closely with Michele and traveling with her just after the 9/11 attacks. The light and love within her helped me to get through those dark times with hope. She was a joy to all those around her. I'm so sorry for your loss. With love, Crystal, Washington, DC
