“Cousin Ronnie was 10 years older than me, so growing up I was one of those young cousins that was always seemed to be a pest. Always bothering my older cousin and/or touching his things. I remember once his mom gave me some of his comic books. Ronnie got upset just because they were collectors editions and in perfect shape or were before I touched them with my grimy hands.

I got my first car at 15. It was brand new and had Levi Jean seats, but it only had an AM radio. Ronnie had just replaced the 8 track tape player in his car and now he had two them of them sitting in his room, so his mother decided that he should just give me one of them and few tapes to go with it. Ronnie wasn't home and he wasn't happy when he got home because I already had one of the 8 Tracks bagged up and ready to go along with some of his favorite tapes.

He took all the stuff from me and wasn't giving me anything. And of course in the end Ronnie helped me get the 8 Track installed, explained to me how t worked, and gave me a few tapes..

I don't remember what tapes I had picked out, but Ronnie replaced them with the Mamas and Papas, the Four Seasons, Carlos Santana, Sly and the Family Stone, and the Ohio Players. I played those tapes over and over again until they wore out. And today, almost 50 years later I still know songs that were on them by heart.

He was always sort of like a big bother to me and I looked up to him, and I still do today.

Thank God for having him in my life.

Our hearts were saddened when we found out about Ronnie's passing. We were his neighbors and sadly enough we never got to really know he and his wife as well as we should have. He worked and was busy all the time and so were we. That is what happens sometimes and then you regret it. As a little girl, I knew his family and even attended church with them from time to time. Wonderful people. May the good Lord bless all of you in the coming days as you attempt to pick up the pieces of your life and put them back together. God is always available to help and should you ever need help, please feel free to call on us..
