Rest In Peace to my favorite uncle. He always had a smile no matter what. I remember my daddy (his brother) and uncle T playing Golf and they wouldn't just play 9 holes, they would end up playing 18 holes. I remember when my dad passed away, uncle Travis would tell me several times it ok Amber, "he is in a better place and I love you." That little bit of love help me threw my daddy's funeral. He was the best Uncle. Uncle T get slot machines ready so we can play as soon as I get there. I love you uncle Travis you were the coolest uncle. I love you!

“ I remember as a young boy just a few years old while at grandma's house Travis came from his dad's house through the woods with his shotgun. He was out hunting and just stopped in to say hi. I remember how cool he seemed to be. From that moment he was my idol. I thought he was cool and I wanted to be like him. A few years later in life he and Joanne took me in when I moved out from home as a young teenager and kick started my young adult life. He will never know what that meant to me (or maybe he does) for him (and Joanne) to have been that critical part of my life. I love you Travis Campbell. Rest in peace my brother.
